Building a Connected Insider Risk Program

Helping System Integrators Scale Insider Risk Monitoring Across the Enterprise

One Insider Risk Program. Enterprise-Wide Visibility. Audit-Ready Compliance.

Government expectations around insider risk are evolving. For system integrators supporting national security missions, success depends on moving beyond fragmented monitoring to a connected enterprise-wide approach that delivers consistent visibility, trusted evidence and audit-ready compliance.

THE CHALLENGE

Fragmented Programs Create Unnecessary Risk

Many system integrators manage insider risk across multiple business units, offices and customer programs, often with different tools, policies and levels of visibility.

The fragmented approach makes it difficult to maintain consistent oversight, investigate incidents efficiently and demonstrate compliance across the enterprise.

COMMON CHALLENGES

THE OPPORTUNITY

From Siloed Monitoring to Connected Visibility

The most effective insider risk programs don't operate independently across business units, offices or customer contracts. They operate as a connected enterprise capability.

By moving to a unified approach, system integrators gain consistent policies, greater visibility into user activity and a simplified way to monitor, investigate and report on insider risk across the organization.

BEFORE

Silod & Inconsistent

Independent programs create fragmented visibility, duplicated effort and inconsistent outcomes.

- ❌ Different policies
- ❌ Different reporting
- ❌ Different tools
- ❌ Different evidence

AFTER

Connected & Consistent

A unified enterprise approach delivers shared visibility, governance and trusted evidence.

- ✅ Shared policies
- ✅ Shared reporting
- ✅ Shared tools
- ✅ Shared evidence
